The host club needs to be sure to send all the paper work pertaining to the show to the show secretary within two days. This includes judges book, score cards, etc.

After entries have closed ASDR will inform the host club of the number of performance trials allowed at that show. The host club will be notified a week before the show date. In the case that a performance event is unable to be offered, the host club will be allowed to replace it with a second trial of another performance event. This event will then take the place of the other even not offered on the top ten or top five score sheets.

Entries are to open four weeks in advance of the show date and close two weeks in advance of the show date. The spread sheet needs to be emailed to the show secretary forty-eight hours after close of entries unless approved by the show secretary. The show secretary will then create the armband numbers and score sheets and mail them to the host club. The ASDR spread sheet and score sheets are to be used at all shows. NO EXCEPTIONS. Extra arm bands and blank score sheets will be provided before the show.

Entries are due Friday 12:00 Midnight central standard time, two weeks before the show date. There will be a grace period of 24 hours after the entries close, where participants can pay $10 per entry to enter late. After this grace period closes no late entries are accepted. This fee will be payed to the host club. NO exceptions.
